Why is DNP Focused on the Security Business?

Since being founded in 1876, DNP has printed a large number of bonds and securities during their 140-year history. The majority of data we've been entrusted with is personal and confidential information from our customers. For this reason, DNP is committed to the prevention of data leakage. Furthermore, because we've also been involved with magnetic stripe cards and IC cards, we've spent a lot of time developing confidential information handling and IC authentication technology, too.
